

May the Light

Written by Ben Bootsma and Johanna Jackson, 2019

May the Light that leads you
shine down, rain down on your head May the Love that needs you
shine down, rain down on your head

May you find power inside the witness of your heart
We can change the way we choose to live apart

We see the beauty of our souls now overflow, washing the hearts of weary travelers on the road

May the Day that greets you
Shine down, rain down on your head
May the Night that feeds you
Shine down, rain down on your head

May you find deep, abiding rest within the sacred dark, we can build a world that sings for ancient hearts

As we delight, and watch the rays of morning sun, may we find joy inside the day and what's begun.

May the Light that leads you
Shine down, rain down on your head
May the Love that needs you
Shine down, rain down on your head

And on the lives of all around you May their grit and grace astound you And may you be renewed
As they travel through.
